SARA Checklist for Success

Please use this CHECKLIST before submitting your SARA. Students who do this inevitably do better than those who don't.

- [ ] My video is between 5-8 MINUTES LONG.
- [ ] I have made SURE the audio and video work well from beginning to end!
- [ ] I have answered the SARA question I was approved for in the first 2-3 slides of my video
- [ ] My SARA includes a slide with the title "Time to relate" (the instructions for what to include here are on the SARA webpage)
- [ ] My SARA includes a slide with the title "Time to apply" the instructions for what to include here are on the SARA webpage)
- [ ] I have used brief citations (e.g. Smith & Roaden, 2002) on every slide where I talk about info I got from articles, books, websites etc…
- [ ] I have included full citations in a "References" slide(s) at the end, listing all sources I cited earlier, in alphabetical order and APA format
- [ ] I have at least the minimum number of peer-reviewed sources (more will give me a higher score)
- [ ] If I read my presentation, no one will be able to tell
- [ ] I have used voice inflections to sound excited and passionate about the material
- [ ] I have used simple fonts (arial or calibri) that are large and contrast well with the background
- [ ] I have used only short yet meaningful bullet points that come in one at a time as I talk about them
- [ ] I have beautiful slides with lots of well placed images and graphics
- [ ] I have created 3 multiple choice questions based on my SARA for students to take.
- [ ] I looked at the instructions for creating the questions (they are on the SARA webpage)
- [ ] I have NOT included these 3 questions in the video itself
- [ ] I have put the 3 questions to the Canvas assignment called "The three multiple choice questions you created"
- [ ] I have indicated in this same Canvas assignment what the answer is to each question
- [ ] I have saved my narrated SARA presentation as a .mp4 or .mov
- [ ] I have uploaded my SARA to the google folder (linked on the Canvas homepage)
- [ ] I have pasted a goggle link to the video into the Canvas assignment called "Your SARA video presentation".
